G.H.E.S. VALENTINE FLOWER SALE

There was really a great demand for flowers this year because over 2,500 flowers were delivered. "All classes seem to respond to this. Students seem to enjoy purchasing them," said Miss Patricia Davis, GHES sponsor. Thanks to a group of well organized officers and students, this year's sale went smoothly.

The senior class really put in some effort to get these signs!

Senior year means . . . having a good time, going to parties . . . BUT there's more to life than being totally obliterating during your teenage years. One should be learning to live and love and pursue happiness that will last throughout a lifetime and not just through the weekend. R.D. and S.B.

ADMINISTRATION TAKES US HIGHER

How has Guilford changed over the years?

All the students attended school for seven 55-minute periods when the school opened in 1962, with fourteen hundred students. Three study halls were available for students who were not in class. The cafeteria and room 151 were study halls. Room 141, adjacent to the library on the west, was eliminated when the north addition was constructed in 1967. When the enrollment grew beyond the capacity of the building, study halls were eliminated, periods were shortened to 50 minutes, and multiple shifts on a 10-period day were allowed. As the enrollment declined the school day was shortened to eight periods.

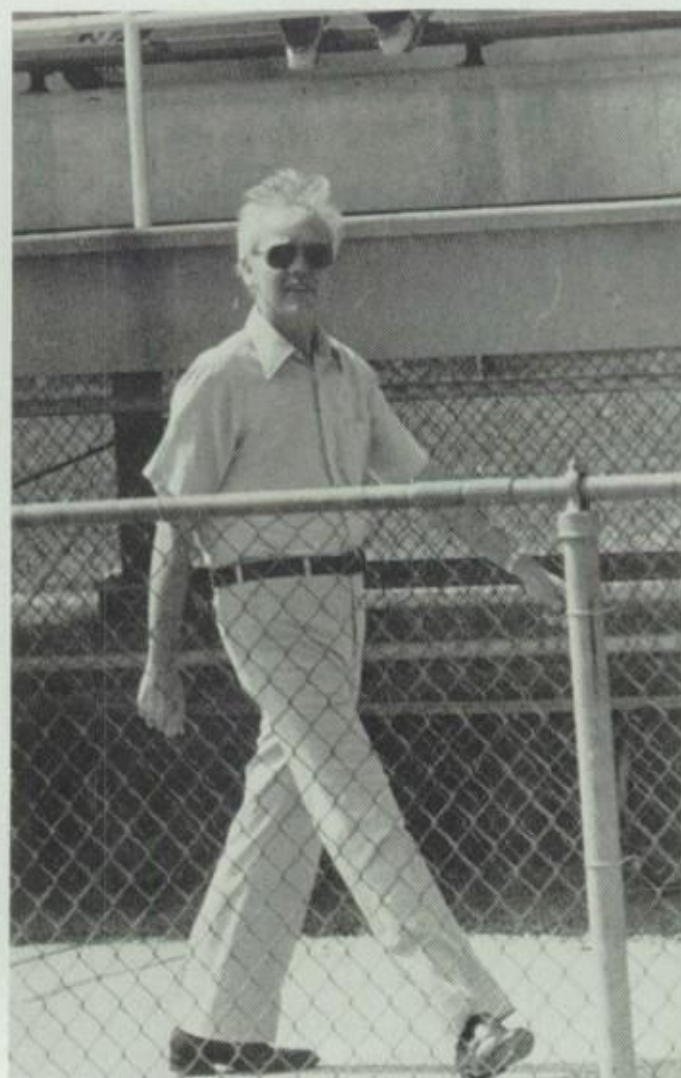

Mr. Darrel Mangas
Asst. Principal

Grades, attendance, and athletics continue to make new records. These accomplishments are most encouraging to us because our students are progressively taking a greater interest in their future by working for a better education.

Rockford's Board of Education consists of seven members who are elected every year by the public to serve a four-year term. Representing the public's interest in the school system, they have set the ideal of getting the entire community to work together so that the students, teachers, and citizens will have confidence that will assure all students of a good education.

The Board meets once a month, often calling special meetings to discuss immediate problems. One of their many duties is to set the overall policies for all schools in district no. 205. In addition, they set curriculum guides and discuss salary changes and schedules. They have the final say on the hiring and dismissing of all teachers and on the remodeling and closing of all schools.

Mr. Arthur Johnson, Superintendent of Schools, was hired by the Board in 1974.

What is your opinion of today's morals?

Films, books, magazines, T.V.-All add to a lowering of morals of years ago. Youth must think for themselves to make wise choices, It's much more difficult to do. Mr. Charles Green

What morals? "NO" meant "NO" when I was growing up! I really rarely questioned authority. I didn't always agree, but I went along. Mrs. Alice Beck

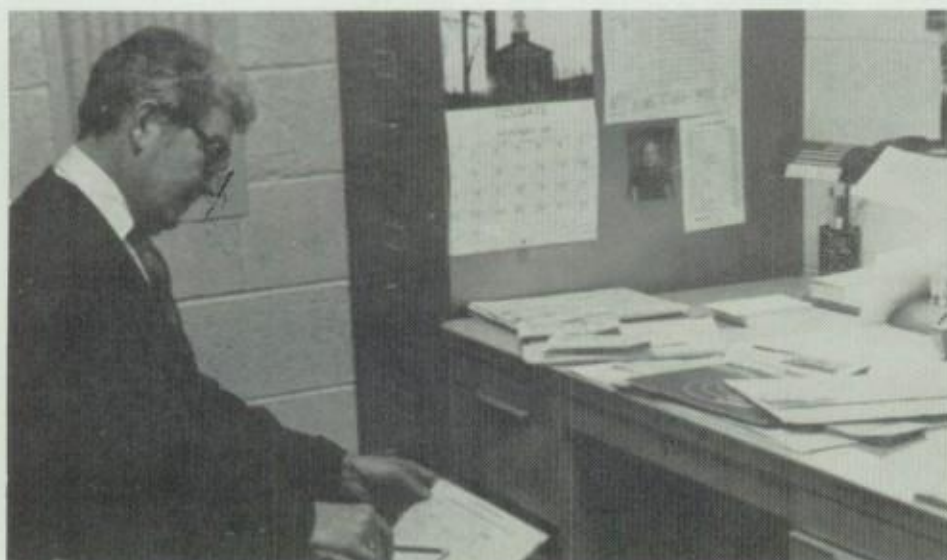

Getting worse. Mr. Donald May

Slipping a little in the "boozing" department. Mrs. Susan Menchaca

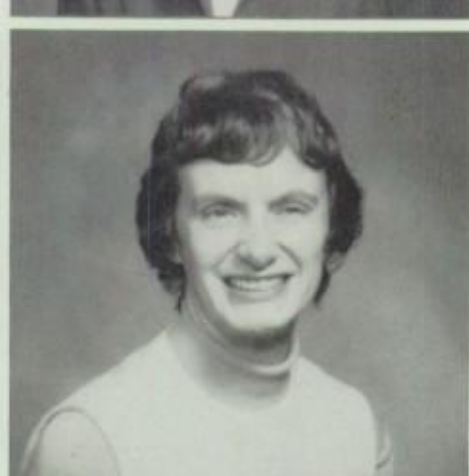

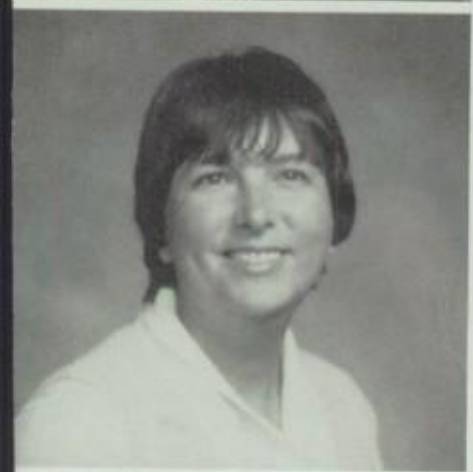

A little loose. Mr. Bradley Seago

Above: Mrs. Holder reviews ACT scores with Heidi Aaron.

Our moral fiber has grown flabby in some areas, especially the area of commitment one's school, class, and activities of a service nature. Little attention comes one's way here, but a strong personal satisfaction follows. I don't speak of a surface commitment, or giving one's all BLUE AND WHITE, but a "thick or thin, win or lose" commitment. It's very hard to come by!! Too bad for all of us. Mr. Michael Harmon

They make me feel young as I grow old. Mr. James Applegate.

By trying to let them know that I'm on their side of learning. We all grow or stagnate until death. Mrs. Alice Beck

Try to be interested in them personally. Mr. Roger Lindeman

No problems so far. I hope I can still say the same when I'm 50! Mrs. Susan Menchaca

I try to be open to their enthusiasm, needs, experiences, desires, knowledge, abilities, and to fuse that with my own for our mutual benefit. Sometimes it works!! Mr. Allen Nevalainen

What would you like to see more of at Guilford?

Patches on the roof, hamburgers exceeding 1/8 inch thickness, smiles on faces, peace in hearts, and an unfaltering commitment to our fellow men and women. Mr. Michael Harmon

More cross-country pep assemblies like when I was here as a student. Mr. Bradley Seago

Better language, more courtesy. Mr. William Johnson

I would like to see more students take more courses. High school is the last time a person can learn without paying tuition. He can learn to paint, sing, sew, cook, type, compute, etc., etc., without paying. Miss Jeanne Claeys

The faculty really enjoyed Mrs. Moorman's honors reception.

It was a Saturday morning in early March and the weather was bitter cold outside. I arrived at the school and as I came in I realized my nerves made me all tense inside. I met a few of my teammates inside and we got dressed. It was so hard to warm up. Just before the big game, I could hardly move because my nerves were just boggling me! I knew, however, that as soon as the game began, I would have to work hard. The game was a defensive struggle. At the end of the game, I was exhausted, but I didn't show it. Why? It was because our team, the Guilford sophomore basketball team, had won the sophomore tournament for our great coach, Mr. Chuck McGonigal. R.P. '83

My most embarrassing experience at Guilford occurred Freshman year when I had just bought a pair of new boots. Trying to impress my upperclassmen friends, I walked like a stud down the center hall towards the library. Suddenly I stepped in a pool of water, slipped, and fell, sending my books and papers in all directions. People started laughing as I quickly tried to recover my books. Being dazed, I slipped again. Ever since then, I concentrate more on walking than on anything else when in the hallways. B.D. '83

My most memorable but most embarrassing experience at Guilford was when I got my hair cut. I had been here for 2 weeks and then IT happened! My dad was trimming my neck, and he wasn't paying attention to what he was doing, so he messed up badly in one spot. Then I had to get it all chopped off! It was the first time in my whole life that I was almost bald!

They're about the same as the 50's generation (their parents) — materialistic, good-time kids, and self-centered.

Mrs. Cari Kelley

Well educated, but trying to find happiness doing the wrong things

Mr. Roger Lindeman

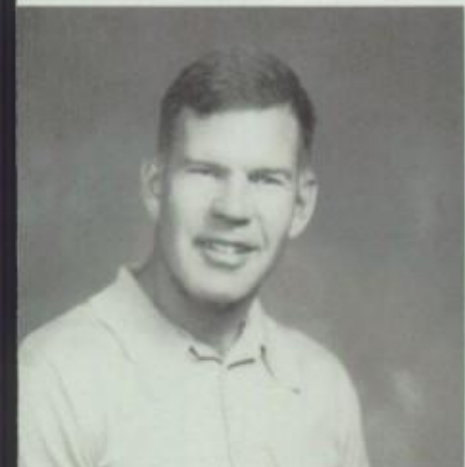

They find less to respect and honor in today's world through our faults, not theirs. If they don't seem as noble sometimes, it's because we don't give them the opportunity. When we do challenge their spirits, they rise magnificently to the occasion.

When I was in high school, we didn't casually cheat, drink, get high, or drive in Chicago! Study halls made doing homework easier. Considering the pressures of earlier sex, drugs, and alcohol, I'd say kids today cope pretty well. They are nice, motivated students that I love working with. Guilford means a beautiful drive to the best high school in Rockford.

John F. Kennedy and Anwar Sadat-because they made me feel optimistic about the future; that with dedicated efforts inspired by ideals, the people of the world can solve our problems. Mr. Chuck Albertson

Would you believe Vince Lombardi? He has affected my life by self-imposed demands for excellence and reminders of leadership by example. Miss Joann Porvliet

I don't know if I have had a true idol. I respect people who are committed and involved, and try to follow those values in my own life. Mr. Robert Freeman

Boy, does that look delicious.

Mr. Dunbar was the greatest. Students could really understand him. I guess that's why the administration wouldn't let him stay. Chris Wilson '84

This year our glorious magistrate, Miss Sue Parrick, has led us forth across the Rubicon into the world of knowledge from our former barbaric existence. We have conquered Pompey, drained the marshes, and driven Carline from the walls of Rome. We have established truth, justice, and the Roman way! Alea iacta est! Semper erimus Romani!

"TU ES LE SOLEIL - FOURTH YEAR FRENCH"

By fourth year, French teacher Miss Martha Daniels decided, "students should already know the basic material and be ready to explore the culture of the people that speak the language. They should gain some insight into the way the French people think, their attitudes, and their outlook on the world."

To do this, the thirteen fourth year students this year studied units on French History, art, architecture, music and gestures. Since food and drink are so important to the French, the students also studied French cuisine and winemaking.

Mr. Redwing and Dr. Smith taught Advanced Placement Chemistry this year. Some students described the course. They said chemistry is . . . watching Dr. Smith do experiments with old chemicals that don't work; paying Mr. Redwing a quarter every time he gets hungry and locks your key in your drawer; killing Bill Hack for killing the curve; meeting new friends: Hess, Boyle, LeCharlier and Lewis; an eight hour take home test; and washing the bottom out of your test tube! Seriously, chemistry provided students with a better understanding so that they may achieve success in higher education.

The Advanced Placement Biology program at Guilford provides our students with the opportunity to involve themselves in a college level course with the accompanying possibility of receiving college credit. Guilford is unique in that only about fifteen percent of the nation's secondary schools have college level Advanced Placement course offerings.

The class is a small and select group of students who plan a career in biology or a related field. Activities range from dissecting minks to experimental gene mapping with fruit flies.

Miss Davis taught Advanced Placement English this year. The following are quotes describing A.P. English submitted by class members. "A.P. English is a crash course in producing literary genius- fast!" "A.P. English is 4 boys and 15 girls." "A.P. English is the perfect pass-fail class!" "A.P. English is Paradise Regained." One student summed it up when he wrote: "A.P. English is subject combined, of unearthly angels and beauries divine. Prologues and sonnets and novels to spare, most understand bur others despair. The reacher will reach Milton and Swift, whose ideas and satire we mentally sift. The point of this course to one and to all, is to test out of college beginning next fall."

On December 18th, about 40 students from the psychology classes, D.E., and Student Council went to Page Park School, for mentally retarded children. They wore costumes, brought gifts and refreshments for the children, had a magic show, and spent time talking to them. Mr. Dora was in charge.

The Child Development class was taught by Mrs. Ferrara. The class consisted of 24 Guilford students and 24 preschoolers ages 3½ to 4½. The students planned an agenda for each week including special activities and field trips. In the spring, they have a special graduation.

"It was a year that ended the way every team dreams about. Along the way they worked hard, and they ran together in a way that makes for a championship team. There are a lot of words I could use to describe this team but I refer to them as the best in the state, number one in '81." Coach Leden. "It was a super fun year, though it was hard work. We made it down state, yet we couldn't of done it without our great coach, Mr. Leden." Birgit Christiansen '83. "Cross Country is a great sport, and Coach Leden made it even better. It was a super experience to go down state, having a feeling of being #1." Shannon Knowles, '84.

GARY P. MILLER

Dear Mac,

This is the fourth time this poem has been written and probably not the last. It will always have its deepest meaning. The change this time is that it is in its past tense.

You and Me

That's how I always wanted it to be.

Help and Care

Between us those were two special things that we shared.

Falling deeply in sorrow,

You picked me up to face tomorrow.

Fun and Games

Who knows which is which to me they were both the same.

Sad and Blue

Your loving kiss reassured me that I had you.

Hiding in the smallest of places,

You would always find me without any traces.

Love and Hate

Your love was on time and not a minute too late.

Live and Die

We shared part of our lives together in hopes to someday make our ties.

We expressed our love through words and motion, And we let out all of our mixed emotions. I will love and cherish you forever and ever, and no one will ever take away the love we shared together.

I will always have a special love for you.

Love,

T-Loddy

VOYAGER SAILS THROUGH ISSUES

"I don't know how we did it, but the fifteen of us got organized in September and put out a paper before we ever had a teacher. After that, Mrs. Pemble came along and saved us from ourselves. We've tried to produce objective, relevant papers all year. Thanks for doing your part, everybody." Kirby Keye, Editor-in-chief.

This year's Voyager staff put their new ideas to press in the Fine Arts Flair column and Voyager Recognizes, spotlighting talented Vikings. Voices gave the student body a chance to express its opinions.

Pool safety captured editorial space and an exclusive interview with Colonel Holland dominated the front page. Sports invaded the center pages with a special tribute to the fall sports that made us number one.

To awaken the readers to the outside world, articles ranged from Rockford's 4th Street Bridge, to Reagan and El Salvador. From balancing the books to selling ads to T squaring the copy, the staff grew to be a working team.

YEARBOOK STAFF SURVIVES!

This year the yearbook staff tried to create the best yearbook Guilford has ever seen. To make the Valhalla better, we sold more advertising and increased the price of the yearbook, which enabled us to afford more color. We also tried to improve the quality of photography. The staff and our new advisor, Mr. Jim Applegate, had no experience whatsoever. Through a lot of time and effort we feel we have succeeded in producing a worthwhile yearbook. Zoë Morgan and Julie Olson, Co-Editors in Chief.

"LET US NOT REMEMBER HOW THEY DIED, BUT HOW THEY LIVED . . . "

Sue Bond Aug. 8, 1966 - June 18, 1981

On June 18, 1981, Sue Bond died, and with her a part of me died also. I had known Sue for four very special years, and we had become like sisters. Sue was the best friend that I had ever had. She was always there when I needed her, and with just the right words to cheer me up when I was down.

Even though she was here for only a short time, she touched many lives and will long be remembered.

This year Brian Perrina would have been a member of the junior class. Last August, a tragic trail bike accident claimed his life. As a sophomore, Brian led the wrestling team to a successful season, and set various individual records including the Most Valuable Wrestler of the team.

In addition to Brian's great wrestling ability, he complimented it by also being a good student. Brian possessed many qualities of a champion on and off the wrestling mat, including the relationship of a very close friend. I will cherish Brian's friendship forever with the memories living on forever. As a wrestler, student, and true friend, we will all miss him.

John Belushi, famous comedian, died on March 5, 1982. We remember him for all of the good times he gave us.
